TEODORO A. AGONCILLO (1912-1985)

One of the preeminent Filipino historians of the 20th century, Professor Agoncillo authored the following works: The Revolt of the Masses: The Story of Bonifacio and the Katipunan (1956), History of the Filipino People (1960), Malolos: The Crisis of the Republic (1960), The Fateful Years: Japan's Adventure in the Philippines, 1941-1945 (1965), Pilipinas Kong Mahal: Isang Kasaysayan (1981), The Burden of Proof: the Vargas-Laurel Collaboration Case (1984), among others. In recognition of his works, which carry a distinctive Filipino view of history, he was posthumously awarded by the National Academy of Science and Technology the title of National Scientist in 1985.

Professor Agoncillo served as Chair of the Department of History from 1963-1966 at the University of the Philippines, his alma mater. He was honored as University Professor, the highest academic rank that the university confers its distinguished academicians. He also served as a member of the National Historical Institute until the time of his death in 1985. Alongside his outstanding contributions in historical literature, he is also remembered for his short stories, poetry, and essays.

FE B. MANGAHAS

Former Chair of the Department of History of St. Scholastica's College, Manila, Professor Mangahas has taught history and women studies in both its college undergraduate and graduate levels. She has co-authored textbooks in Philippine, Asian, and World History, as well as Civics and Culture. As Director of the Cultural Center of the Philippines' Women's Program, she co-edited and published anthologies for women in the arts, media, culture and history. Professor Mangahas earned her undergraduate degrees in history and music from the University of the Philippines and her MA in History from the Ateneo de Manila University.
