ABSTRACT

ALANO, MELONY D., Case Studies of Persons with Disabilities in Cavite State University, Indang, Cavite. Undergraduate Thesis. Bachelor of Science in Social Work. Cavite State UNiversirty. May 2017. Thesis Adviser: Prof. Merlie C. Nahilat, MSSW.

The purpose of this study was to present an overview of the research on Case Studies of Persons with Disabilities focusing on person with disability students who are taking their college degrees at Cavite State University. It also determined the problems encountered and the coping strategies of PWD's on how they deal with other students.

Data from interview conducted on the five (5) selected students were gathered. Various methodological approaches in studying such variables and their limitations were then presented and discussed. The collected data served as the basis of the computed results.

This research emphasized contextualization to deeply understand the study. It also used the significant statements and development of an essence description that helped this study to become more reliable and effective.

The results of the data gathering in the study as well as the explanation of these results showed that the persons with disability had problems in terms of financial, experienced criticisms and bullying, difficulty in coping, keeping their emotion to themselves, feeling mocked and ashamed because of their condition and inability to go to high buildings and place. In terms of coping strategies of the participants, having a disability are not barriers to not pursue or continue their life as a student.

These students showed positive outlook in life. They remained cheerful. In addition, their experiences made them more mature despite their young age and their coping strategies helped them to accept the bullying and discrimination from other people. They took bullying and discrimination as motivation to pursue their goals and dreams.
