ABSTRACT

PANGANIBAN, CLARISE P. APRIL 2007. Parenting Style and Antisocial Behavior of Adolescents in Selected Barangays of Indang, Cavite. Descriptive Study. Bachelor of Science in Psychology. Cavite State University, Indang, Cavite. April, 2007. Adviser: Mrs. Imelda R. Filart

The study aimed to: 1.) identify the styles of parenting of respondents; 2.) determine the level of antisocial behavior of adolescents toward society, parent and self; 3.) ascertain if styles of parenting have significant difference on the antisocial behavior of adolescents.

Twenty nine (29) authoritarian parents, twenty six (26) authoritative, twenty five (25) permissive parents and sixty (60) antisocial adolescents served as respondents in the study. A descriptive design was used which was integrated by a normative method using Parenting Style Inventory and Antisocial Inventory. Descriptive statistics such as frequency counts and percentages were used in determining the styles of parenting of respondents. Kruscal Wallis was used to satisfy the objectives of the study.

Findings of the study revealed that majority of the respondents were authoritarian parents. Majority of adolescent respondents had average level of antisocial behavior towards parent, self and society. Styles of parenting have no significant difference to antisocial behavior of adolescent respondents.
